Subject: Conference invitation - with reference from Mr. Giles

Dear [REDACTED]

My name is Lucas Lambert, Senior Partner at NPH investments. I was referred to you by Mr. Keir Giles from Chatham House.

NPH investments is a private equity firm located in Hong Kong and Tokyo, catering to a variety of private companies across East Asia. We provide wealth management services from financial planning to business development and market expansion strategies.

Recently we have seen growing concerns from our clients that wish to channel their investments to the tech industry in Europe and the US. Therefore, we are currently planning a private cyber-security event for our investors that will be held in Hong Kong in late 2018. One of the areas of major concern for our clients is the increasing overlapping and reciprocity between the private cyber companies and governmental agencies. In particular, our clients from the financial sector are worried about their intellectual property and other sensitive information being exploited.

We are interested in holding several panels on the issue, using experts in both the technological and geopolitical spheres. As your expert work in the field is widely renowned, and comes warmly recommended by Mr. Giles, we would like to invite you to be one of the speakers, as a specialist [REDACTED] in one of these panels.

I am travelling to New York next week on Wednesday and would appreciate if we could meet in person to discuss this proposal further.

Best regards,
Lucas Lambert
